COUNCILLOR ZONDERVAN

WHEREAS: Cambridge is walkable and enjoys ready access to multiple modes of public transit; and

WHEREAS: Much of Cambridge's surface parking occupies space that could be devoted to the affordable housing, dining or retail space, the city's tree canopy, sustainable transportation, and other uses that support the local economy and mitigate local environmental impacts including the urban heat island effect and increased flooding risks; and

WHEREAS: The City Council is considering eliminating single family only zoning and residential parking minimums and this should be considered alongside evaluations of City planning policies that promote car storage over other potential uses, such as those discussed above; and

WHEREAS: A recent study by the Metropolitan Area Planning Council (MAPC) found that 30% of the parking spaces that are built for apartments in the Boston area go unused by residents; and

WHEREAS: The same MAPC study found that parking spaces in the Boston area cost on average $15,000 per space to build, and underground spaces can be much more expensive— with another report estimating underground spaces in Cambridge can cost more than $150,000 per space; and

WHEREAS: Recent ordinances in cities such as Berkeley, CA and Somerville, MA have added parking maximums for new projects to ensure that car storage does not take up space that could go to uses that better meet the needs of residents; and

WHEREAS: Parking interventions such as curb cuts also take away from other potential uses and contribute to car dependency while reducing pedestrian and cycling safety; now therefore be it

ORDERED: That the City Manager be and is hereby requested to work with the Community Development Department, the Traffic, Parking and Transportation Department, the Legal Department, and the public to present the City Council with options to eliminate residential and commercial parking minimums citywide and add parking maximums near transit hubs to zoning for future projects, examine curb cut policies and their impact on encouraging car use and reducing green space, and consider how residential parking permit fee structures can better represent parking costs and include exemptions for low-income car owners; and be it further ORDERED: That the City Council host a meeting of the Transportation and Public Utilities Committee to discuss any potential changes to parking policies that would apply to future projects with staff and receive input from members of the public.
