Comunicatons:Reasons to protect The Magazine Geese and Save Magazine Beach as it is for the joy and rest of our Cambridge Citizens, Peter Val entine 37 Brookline St. 8/24/2012

What I have to say will take approximately 2 1/2 minutes

And since the Massachusettes constitution guarantees the people in Article 19 the right to give instructions to their representatives.

And since the Massachusetts Constitution and US Constitutions prevail over any and all city constitutions. And since the council has sworn oath to uphold both I'm sure everything will be all right.

The flock of geese, long residing near Magazine Beach, a location unusually situated between Harvard, MIT and Boston University specifically on the Cambridge side. There is no such flock anywhere in the Boston area or surrounding areas, specifically on the Cambridge side. And also they chose a location where there were citizens available to protect them and feed them if necessary against the brutalities of man, who have recked havoc on the Earth destroying the air, poisoning the land and polluting the oceans with garbage and all manner of junk.

OFFICE OF THE CITY CLERK
CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS

Anyone aware of the infinite subtly with which Thee Creator brings forth The Glory would know that these birds having done such are highly intelligent and have come to be with us to assist in protecting our intelligent quality way of life.

Although I know that this city government does a excellently qualified job in its city operations, it doesn't have the understanding to see the meaning of why these birds have come to be with us and, stayed with us, for so long.

I would ask them to stop their plan of slowly killing off these creatures for the sake of increasing traffic, parking and profits.

But I know they wont.

And so I ask Thee Creator to protect this flock of intelligent creatures and provide a good place for them to live with us.

And also I ask Thee Creator to see to it that Magazine Beach is kept as a well taken care of open field for the people of Cambridge to get away to play and relax from the tensions of city activity especially with the increase of congestion due to new developmentand, to refresh themselves
